Tips on Finding and Applying for Scholarships

Do you need a Scholarship?

Tips provided by StudentScholarships.org

Tips on How to Find Scholarships

Finding resources to attend post-secondary studies isn't that difficult. However, it takes time and effort to look for awards. There is no simple click that will point you to all the funds available and there is no comprehensive book to tell you everything.

If you spend the time, you will be paid for the work you put into it. Even if you only spend one day looking for awards, you may end up with a $500 award. That is pretty good for one day of work.

The most important thing to always remember is that if you don't apply, you won't receive anything.

8 Places to Look

1. High School

Visit the Guidance Counselor's office. They usually receive resources from many donors and an experienced counselor can be invaluable to your search.

2. Institution of Study

Another good place to start is at the school where you intend to enroll. Every post-secondary institution has an Awards Program. Most have their awards listed on their website.

Many awards at the institutions do not get enough applicants simply because students have left it to the last minute. Most institutions make an effort to post their awards well ahead of the deadlines. Once you have enrolled in a particular institution, make sure you pay attention to the emails the college awards office will send you.

3. Local Community

Often local awards will not be found on the internet. These awards are generally offered through community clubs, charitable foundations, local employers, and community organizations.

Do you need a Scholarship?

Tips provided by StudentScholarships.org

4. Your Employer or your Parent's Employer

Many companies offer programs for employees and employees' dependents as part of their benefit package. Ask your parents. Students who work part-time should also check with their own employer.

5. Professional Organizations

Professional organizations want to promote their profession. Many national groups have local affiliates, so always check locally and nationally. See what they have to offer. For example: A.P.E.G.G.A, an engineering association, offers many scholarships for students interested in Engineering.

6. Industry

Think about where you would seek employment upon completion of studies. Many industries offer awards to encourage development of a skilled workforce. You don't have to work for the company offering the scholarship, simply take advantage of the opportunity to apply.

7. Specific to Ethnic Origin or Citizens with Disabilities

Many companies and organizations offer awards to assist specific students. If you are of aboriginal ancestry there are many awards established to assist aboriginal students. There are also many awards offered through organizations that support citizens with disabilities. Check with your local support organization or their affiliated national websites.

8. Internet

There are several different ways in which you should use the internet in searching for awards.

Google Search

Remember that when you are using a search engine, such as Google, you need to be as specific as possible. For example, if you are looking for scholarships for engineering, you should be searching for "Engineering Scholarships" or "Scholarships for Engineering".

Do you need a Scholarship?

Tips provided by StudentScholarships.org

Tips on How to Find Scholarships

The more specific your search, the more likely you are to find scholarships quickly. Another great example would be to include the country or province you are from in the search. For example, if you are looking for scholarships for engineering, you should be searching for “Canadian Engineering Scholarships” or “Scholarships for Canadian Engineering Students”.

2. Scholarship Databases

There are several websites devoted to collecting and sorting through scholarships on the internet. Our preference is obviously Studentscholarships.org, but there are several other search engines that will help during your search. Some of the sites include:

- A) www.studentscholarships.org
- B) www.manitobascholarships.ca
- C) www.ammsa.com
- D) www.nursingscholarships.ca
- E) www.nupge.ca/scholarships
- F) www.engineeringscholarships.ca
- G) www.listofscholarships.ca

After you Find some Awards

If you are unsure about some of the qualifications of the award you have found, write or email the possible donor(s). Do not call. Make your letter short and to the point; just identify yourself and request information and an application. If you are writing, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a quick response.

Before contacting the donor, ensure that the information can not be found online. In most instances, answers to your questions can be found online.

Pay Attention to the Deadlines

Don't apply for awards at the last minute or when you are bogged down with term papers and homework. You won't feel like putting in the effort and your applications will likely reflect that.

Do you need a Scholarship?

Tips provided by StudentScholarships.org

Getting a Head Start on the Application Process

As early as possible, prepare a portfolio to include:

1. Typed statement of extra-curricular and community involvement.
2. Typed statement of your education and career goals
3. Academic record: transcripts, statement of grades, test scores
4. Personal Accomplishments: certificates of recognition, participation awards
5. Letters of reference that speak to community involvement
6. Letters of reference that discuss your extra-curricular activities.

Academics aren't everything

There are many awards that are given based on community involvement, satisfactory academic standing, ethnic origins, specific interests, financial need, etc.

Most Importantly

Our advice is to apply, apply and then apply some more! If you do not receive an award right away, don't be discouraged. Intensify your search. Keep a record of all awards and bursaries you apply for and reapply each year.

Big Dig Scholarships

Organization: Antique Trader
Scholarship Amount: $3,000
Number of Awards: 1
Deadline: December 3, 2010

To be eligible for the Big Dig Scholarship you must be currently in Grade 12 or in your first year of college/university sometime in 2011. You also must submit a short essay.

Question:

In 200 years, one of your relatives is going to be digging in what is now your backyard. They are going to find something that you buried in 2011 and it is going to put any financial worries they have to rest.

Your job today is to decide what to bury. Your goal is to find something that will have immense value in the future. The item you choose to bury today must:

1. Be currently sold in a store today
2. Be under $500

Write an essay that is between 500 - 1000 words. Be sure to answer all of the following questions in your essay:

1. What is the item you are going to bury?
2. Where could you purchase the item today?
3. How much does the item cost?
4. What made you choose this item?
5. Why do you believe that the item will have immense value 200 years from now?

Essays will be graded primarily on originality and depth of content. Grammar, punctuation, and spelling will play a small factor.

The Dupont Challenge

Organization: Dupont
Scholarship Amount: $5000
Number of Awards: 6
Deadline: January 31, 2011

What interests you in the exciting and ever-changing world of science? Where do your interests lie and what subjects would you like to explore in greater detail? What application of scientific thought or research do you believe can help solve some of the challenges of today's complex world? What kind of technology fascinates you? What future uses do you see for an improved version of existing technology? And where in the world of science might YOU fit in? Could a career in one of the sciences or in applied sciences await you? Think about it—write about it.

The DuPont Challenge Science Essay Competition gives you an opportunity to put your thoughts on paper—not only expressing yourself, but also sharing your ideas with others. The only limits—besides the contest's 1,000-word limit and other important rules—are your own enthusiasm, your research, and your interest in studying and presenting a fascinating aspect of science or technology.

Sears Canadian High School Design

Organization: Design Exchange/Sears Canada
Scholarship Amount: $250
Number of Awards: 12
Deadline: March 25, 2011

Design Exchange is proud to announce the 16th Annual Sears Canadian High School Design Competition. The aim of the competition is to promote the study and awareness of various design disciplines in schools across Canada. The competition is open to all high school students, at the junior (grades 10 and below) and senior (grades 11 and above) levels. Prizes will be awarded at the two levels, in each of the four categories – Industrial Design - Task Light, Fashion Design - Reclaimed T-Shirt, Architecture / Interior Design - Refueling Station, and Graphic Design - 2011 Competition Certificate.

Students can work individually or in teams, though the numbers in each team will be taken into consideration by the judges. Students may submit more than one entry as long as they are in separate categories.

All entries will be judged in April 2011 by a panel of professional designers and / or design educators. If the design entries do not meet the requirements, the panel reserves the right not to award a winner for that category. All decisions made by the panel are final.

About

Red River College was once known as The Industrial Vocational Education Centre. It was established by R.J. Jones, T.O. Durin, and Otto Peters in the mid-1930's at Henry Avenue. The school started as evening programs that help train unemployed and unskilled youths in various trades. The success of the centre encouraged the government to support its programs through the Department of Labor in 1938, which changed its name to Red River College. Its first courses included: sheet metal, power engineering, welding and forging, needle trades, sheet metal, and carpentry.

Campus: Facilities, Residence and Location

Red River College has five regional campuses in Manitoba: Gimli Campus, Peguis-Fisher River Campus, Portage Campus, Winkler Campus, and Steinbach Campus. These campuses offer industry-recognized certificated programs and also the first year of a two-year college diploma program in a student's own community. The campuses also make customizable courses and workshops for businesses and organizations. In 2002, the Stevenson Aviation expanded its range by opening a new campus at Saskatchewan Avenue. Located at the Winnipeg Campus, the Stevenson Aviation and Aerospace Training Centre was created for skilled workers in Manitoba's aerospace and aviation sectors. The RRC Princess Street Campus was created for students who study business, information technology, and modern media. The University of Winnipeg accommodated RRC students in its residential buildings. Some of the student options that they offer are: Lions Manor Senior Citizens' Housing Complex (single dorm-style accommodation on student-only floors, furnished/unfurnished bachelor and one-bedroom suites); McFeetors Hall (single dorms, double-dorms and family housing); Great West Life Student Residence. Visiting Scholars Meal Plan are also offered for interested students.

Poster Design Competition

The Art Institutes schools and Americans for the Arts Poster Design Competition 2011 is your chance to earn a full-tuition scholarship to study graphic design with faculty and students who share your passion for color, composition, and creativity. Even if you're a qualifying student interested in our other programs, you're still eligible to compete in this competition.

If you're a high school senior thinking of pursuing a creative education, let the theme "Life is better with art in it" inspire you to design a poster that showcases your talent. See if your work captures the imagination of the graphic design professionals who'll judge the submission based on originality, visual impact, and demonstration of basic design concepts.

Enter your design at one of the more than 40 Art Institutes schools, and you could move on as a local winner to the finals—and your shot at a full- or partial-tuition scholarship.

Life is better with art in it. And your future will be brighter with an education from an Art Institutes' school propelling it.

Be sure to download The Art Institutes and Americans for the Arts Poster Design Competition 2011 brochure below to find out more!

President's Entrance Scholarships

Value: $2,500
Number of Awards: Varies

UBC recognizes the academic achievements of high-school and post-secondary students through the President's Entrance Scholarships (PES). There is no separate application; students are selected for a PES based on their admission average. You will find out if you have been awarded a President's Entrance Scholarship, and the value of that scholarship, when you receive your offer of admission from UBC.

To be eligible, you must be entering studies at UBC from a high school, college, university, or technical institute. Please note that if you have attended UBC previously, you are not eligible.

Your President's Entrance Scholarship is based on your average at the point of admission and is confirmed in your admission offer letter. Changes to your average will not affect your award level.

Aboriginal Awards

Value: $1,000 +
Number of Awards: 60

In addition to the University's general award programs, UBC has over 60 awards specifically for Aboriginal students and students pursuing Aboriginal-relevant coursework.

Am I eligible?

To determine your eligibility for Aboriginal scholarships, download the application form and review the requirements.

How do I apply?

You can download the application form on the UBC Awards, Fees & Finances Aboriginal students web page.

Secondary School Students Entrance Scholarships
